

PRAYER AT THE SENDING OUT OF THE EUCHARISTIC MINISTERS TO THE SICK AND HOUSEBOUND

Priest: Almighty and loving Father, as we have received your Son in this Holy Eucharist, we ask you to hear our prayer for our brothers and sisters:

All: Give your healing, Lord, to those who are sick and housebound. May those who take the Body of Christ to them also be a loving sign of our prayers and thoughts. Keep us united with them in all their sufferings so that we will grow together as one community with the presence of Christ among us.

Saint Michael the Archangel, defend us in battle. Be our protection against the wickedness and snares of the devil. May God rebuke him, we humbly pray; and do Thou, O Prince of the Heavenly Host, by the Divine Power of God, cast into hell Satan and all the evil spirits who roam throughout the world seeking the ruin of souls. Amen

Lord, teach me to be generous.
Teach me to serve you as you deserve;
to give and not to count the cost,
to fight and not to heed the wounds,
to toil and not to seek for rest,
to labor and not to ask for reward,
save that of knowing that I do your will.

The spiritual quest

There are two young people in today's readings: young king Solomon and the rich young man. Both are in search of something "more", both are on a quest. One succeeds and the other is disappointed. What makes the difference?

It may help to think of our own experience of the deeper human longing, the spiritual quest. We are likely to have experienced both success and failure — and each can ask oneself what in me made the difference each time? Moving into the present moment, where am I now in my life? What do I desire deep down? Are there things I need to let go of right now?

One of the dangers of having a lot of money is that you may be quite satisfied with the kinds of happiness money can give, and so fail to realize your need for God. If everything seems to come simply by signing checks, you may forget that you are at every moment totally dependent on God. Now, quite plainly natural gifts carry with them a similar danger. If you have sound nerves and intelligence and health and popularity and a good upbringing, you are likely to be quite satisfied with your character as it is. "Why drag God into it?" you may ask. A certain level of good conduct comes fairly easily to you. You are not one of those wretched creatures who are always being tripped up by sex or dipsomania or nervousness or bad temper. Everyone says you are a nice chap, and between ourselves, you agree with them. You are quite likely to believe that all this niceness is your own doing, and you may easily not feel the need for any better kind of goodness. Often people who have all these natural kinds of goodness cannot be brought to recognize their need for Christ at all until one day, the natural goodness lets them down, and their self-satisfaction is shattered. In other words, it is hard for those who are rich in this sense to enter the kingdom."
— C.S. Lewis, Mere Christianity

Be gentle to all and stern with yourself. Our body has this defect that, the more it is provided care and comforts, the more needs and desires it finds. Prayer is an act of love; words are not needed. Even if sickness distracts from thoughts, all that is needed is the will to love. Saint Teresa of Avila Feast 15th Oct

Donald and Morag's happy married life almost went on the rocks because of the presence in the household of old Aunt Jemima. For seventeen long years she lived with them, always crotchety, always demanding. Finally the old girl died. On the way back from the cemetery, Donald confessed to his wife, "Morag dear, if I didn't love you so much, I don't think I would have put up with having your Aunt Jemima in the house all those years." Morag looked at him aghast. "My Aunt Jemima!" she cried. "I thought she was your Aunt Jemima!" Sadie was getting on in years and was sometimes a bit forgetful. She would go upstairs to do something - and when she got there, she couldn't remember what it was. One day, after a few such episodes, she said to her husband Donald "Oh my goodness, I think my mind is almost gone". Donald, who had been reading the paper, scarcely looked up but commented dryly: "I'm not surprised. You've been giving me a piece of your mind for over 60 years
